

Knox Scouting Report

Games Scouted: March 5 vs. University of Health Sciences,
March 29 vs. Monmouth and April 1 vs. Beloit

Velocity estimate calculation information:

- Velocity = Distance / Time
- Time = Frames (found using Tracker Video Analysis software) / Frame Rate (fps)
- Distance = 60 ft. 6 in.
- Conversion rate (ft per second to mph) = 0.6818
- Frame rate of video is 60 frames per second
- "Frames" used in the "Time" calculation is the average for 5 different pitches of the amount of frames it took for the pitch to reach home plate from the hand

Pitcher Notes:

Brady Bertrand - #35 (RHP):

- Has a quick, jerky, overhand motion that comes after a slow windup
- Throws a lot of strikes but does not have exceptional velocity
- Slider is decent with a short quick drop, liable to hang though
- Curve is too slow and struggled to accomplish anything
- Has a distinct 4-seam and sinker

Brandon Ward - #24 (RHP):

- Also has distinct 4-seam and sinker
- Throws hard, gets strikeouts with fastballs up in the zone
- Effective slider and curve that tunnel nicely

Caleb Hay - #46 (RHP):

- Major arm-side run on his 4-seam fastball
- Has a gyro slider that drops a ton which he seems to control well
- Mixed it nicely with a slower curve, has a bad changeup as well

Nick Henning - #36 (RHP):

- Sharp gyro slider that he uses as a one-two punch with fastball
- Decent changeup that he mixes in at times
- Struggled with command to begin each outing, then settled in

Saverio Scumaci - #12 (RHP):

- Three-quarter, short delivery, shitty curveball
- Mostly throws low fastballs to get ground balls, does not throw hard
- Massive arm-side run on fastball

Lineup Notes:

Andrew Garrett - #8 (2B):

- Short, choppy swing
- Classic leadoff hitter, has speed
- May create chaos on the basepaths

Braden Ogden - #17 (DH):

- Hard swinger, good eye as well
- Hit the ball hard when he made contact

Cole Shepherd - #2 (OF):

- Compact, efficient swing
- Gets hits, has decent pop to all fields

Etienne Thomas - #18 (C):

- All right hitter, not much to say
- Decent defensive catcher as well
- Pop time: 2.23s

Evan Laws - #22 (SS):

- Not a great swing, slappy and round
- Strikeouts more than he makes contact
- Good defensively though

Holden Jones - #10 (OF):

- Selective hitter, definitely a pest at the plate
- Not a lot of power, but can get on base

Jason Clark - #6 (3B):

- Could be dangerous at the plate, has a big swing
- Seems to struggle with certain offspeed pitches
- Has definite pop to the gaps

Joseph Williams - #44 (1B):

- Seems to either strikeout or hit a double

Nicholas Stan - #11 (1B):

- Did not look very good, struck out almost every at bat I saw
- Smaller sample size than the rest though

Troy Brandt - #26 (OF):

- Works counts well
- Good contact hitter
